Tendencies 2005: Design and creativity «when beauty does good»

European Tradeshow on Workplace and Work Situations Ergonomics Solutions. (3rd edition)

Wednesday 23rd, Thursday 24th and Friday 25th March 2005 at Brussels Expo Palais 12

Over 15 000m², associated in logistics with the SECURA Belgian national fair,

ERGONOMA will take place for the third year in BRUSSELS. A unique tradeshow in Europe, entirely dedicated to the ergonomics of workplaces and work situations, it allows one thing to be spotlighted: «Although work is inevitable, pain at work should not be». ERGONOMA proposes a global offer in ergonomics: material, services, measurement and analysis, prevention, professional organisations, institutions, administration and training, based on a European scientific council

The European meeting of professionals watching over your health will allow you to meet 73 exhibitors to date, including the biggest names in design, furniture manufacturers and distributors, ergonomic materials and accessories from 15 countries: United States, Belgium, France, Germany, the Netherlands, Poland, Canada, Finland, Switzerland, Norway, Greece, Sweden, Italy, United Kingdom, Australia (registered on 18/12/2004)

For 3 days, ERGONOMA is also associated with a pole of training sessions developed by the best renowned European experts in cognitive ergonomics and the application of solutions to improve living conditions in the workplace.

For too long ergonomic materials and furniture have been but synonyms of heavy equipment, «bare», unsightly, and at the same time architects and decorators were redesigning the working universe adapting it to the new technologies. Today, the conception of ergonomics as a gadget, something to keep a clear conscience, is out of date ; ergonomics is a daily reality in the working world and at home. After the age where man had to adapt to machines, it is finally the machine and processes that have to adapt to man. Excessive sitting, task repetition, competitiveness, ageing of the active population develop disabling illnesses of the muscles and skeleton that are onerous for the economy of the whole of society. The time is more than right to bring ergonomics in everywhere. The large «fashion designers» of furniture and professional material will be present at ERGONOMA alongside firms totally dedicated to product ergonomics to exhibit their latest developments as beautiful to look at as they are for our health. See it all at www.ergonoma.com

Entrance free only by invitation. Open 10 am to 6 pm and on Thursday to 8 pm.

Exhibition accessible for the disabled. Free pre-registration to exhibit, visit and register at the training meetings on www.ergonoma.com or by fax on +33(0) 237 440 450
